Good Advice.

An unprepared man went to address a Sunday school. Thinking to be funny, he asked this question: "What would you do before so many bright boys and girls, who expected a speech from you, if you had nothing to say?" "I'd keep quiet," replied a small boy.

Result of a Debate.

The debate, "Which is the most useful animal, the dog or the cat?" was decided by the audience a tie—that the household would be unable to do without one or the other.—Big Sandy (Ky.) News.

For Your Traveling Bag.

Brown leather traveling bags, or any other brown leather goods, may be beautifully polished by rubbing them with the inside of a banana skin and then polishing with a soft dry cloth.

Hypocrite Pug.

The Oranbrook Citizen contends that the laziest animal on earth is a pug dog, and yet the pug dog is always putting around as if it was worked almost to death.

Way of Prolonging Life.

The statement has been made that life would be prolonged if persons would acquire the habit of stooping by the hips, instead of bending the backbone.

Has to Be Properly Done.

A drop of ink can still make millions think. But it has to be turned into live-wire language and printed on the better kind of paper to do it.

Onto Himself.

Bit—"Wonder why Rodgers doesn't marry." Dix—"I guess he realizes he'd be a fool to marry a woman who'd be fool enough to marry him."

Best Possible Way.

"It," says Deacon W. C. Palmer, "there is no other way to get your wife to agree with you just admit you're wrong."

Childish Chatter.

Elsie (with picture book)—"I'd just love to be a mermaid." Margie—"I wouldn't. What would I hang up for Christmas?"

Not in Some Parts.

"The word 'drink' may be used as either a verb or a noun, but as the latter it is seldom declined."—Puck.

Support.

"So you got married? And you earning but $13 a month." "Certainly; I couldn't live on that."

For Squeaky Hinges.

The creaking of a door may be instantly stopped by rubbing the hinge with a piece of soap. It does not spoil the look of the paint as is often the case when oil is used.

Not Worth the Effort.

Sapleigh—"I really don't know what's the matter with me. I don't seem able to collect my thoughts." Smart—"Take my advice, old man, and don't try."

Willing to Be All.

She (coldly)—"A kiss? Certainly not! Don't you know that kissing breeds disease?" He—"Well, who cares! You're studied nursing, haven't you?"

Two at a Crack.

A good way to solve two of our modern problems would be to take all prisoners out of politics and put some politicians in prison.—Boston Transcript.

Owned Up.

"I hear you're writing books on sex hygiene." "Yes," replied the hack writer, with a chuckle. "I've struck pay dirt at last."—Judge.

Inconsistent Fractions.

"I am tired," declared Womanhood, in effect, "of being a better half by courtesy and a submerged tenth in point of fact."—Life.

Rather Cramped.

Miss Ethel—"Kate says she's weary of living in a small apartment." Jack Carr—"A case of flat tire, eh?"—Boston Transcript.

Self-Improvement.

Be at war with your vices, at peace with your neighbors, and let every new year find you a better man.—Franklin.

From Ben.

The heart of the fool is in his mouth; but the mouth of the wise man is in his heart.—Benjamin Franklin.

Hard Lesson.

A judicious reticence is hard to learn, but it is one of the great lessons of life.—Chesterfield.

Motto Adjusted.

Here's a motto for a New York lobster palace: "Wine, Woman and Sing Sing."
